

Binn Wall Footpath Closure

Monday 11th October for approximately two weeks

From BAM Nuttall

You will recall that to undertake the works on the flood defences directly adjacent to Salthouse Farm we had to close the footpath. This prevented access from Salthouse Farm directly on to the existing seawall and closed the route between New Passage and Severn Beach.

In order that we could allow both residents of Salthouse Farm and the public, access to the Severnway Footpath over the busy summer period, we reopened the path.

We are however at the stage where we need to return to the area to complete the finishing works and landscaping.

To complete the works and ensure the safety of both our workforce and the public we must again close the footpath.

The closure will be from week commencing Monday 11th October. We anticipate that the works will be completed within two weeks.

We understand the importance of the link between Salthouse Farm and the seafront and will endeavour to reopen the path as soon as we can.

BAM Nuttall hope this information is helpful and thank you for your understanding as they reduce flood risk in Avonmouth and Severnside.
